THE COURTS.

The poetical proverb, "Though absent still to memory dear," finds frequent illustration in the courts in Telepect to Henry W. Genet. In other words, his creditors leave no stone unturned to make good, if possible, their claims against him. On behalf of Mr. Leroy Knight application was made yesterday in Supreme Court, Chambers, for against Mr. Genet to foreclose a mortgage for

A TRULY WONDERFUL MAN.

In the progress of the cause-Spenser vs. Daniel-which was tried at the Court of Special Sessions yesterday, proof was presented regarding the peculiar character of the complainant. As longs to a class of men who are notoriously greedy his peculiarities are all the more astonishing. Spenser, it appeared, keeps a liquor saloon at No. 28 Christopher street, where at times he gives exhibitions of his eccentricity. He boards with Mrs. Meyers, at No. 141 Macdongal street, where also Mr. Daniel shares in the bed and table. efore the commencement of the present action Meyers and Daniel were very friendly, but Mrs.
Meyers for some reason refused to board Spenser any more after last Saturday. After he had oeen dismissed he called several times, and on one occasion he noticed a cemijohn standing in the corner of the room and asked Mrs. Nevers how it came there. She said Mr. Daniel had orought it home, an announcement which seemed to astonish Spenser, who in a lew minutes left the house.
The next day Daniel was arrested on a charge of petit larceny and committed for trial at the Special Sessiona. Yesterday when the case was called the prisoner's counsel called witnesses to prove the following facts:—That when intoxicated Spenser will not allow any one who enters his house to pay dor drinks, he claiming the exclusive right to do the "boiling." One witness swore that he and a friend happened to enter Spenser's when the "boses" was in a happy mood, and that ail three threw dice for drinks; that when deponent or his irlend were "stuck" Spenser claimed the "throw" was not fair and made every one shake the bones again until finally he came out with the smallest number of dots. When this happened he seemed much delighted, and insisted on the party taking expensive drinks. On the occasion in question the dice box was in use for two hours. These facts were brought out previous to the testimony of Daniel,
who, when put on the stand, swore that Spenser gave him the demijohn full of whiskey on the night previous to his seeing it in Mrs. Meyers' house. Daniel was nonorably discharged, and as he passed out of court a stream of ioungers followed to get Mr. Spenser's number that they might call on him.

TOMBS POLICE COURT. Meyers and Daniel were very friendly, but Mrs. Meyers for some reason refused to board Spenser

William Doll obtained $36 72 from him on a check for that amount, drawn on the Murray Hih National Bank. The check, which was made payable to Doll or order, was drawn by John Klein, who, it appears, never had an account with the bank. When Doll was arraigned he said he was guilty of no fai-e pretence, he had given the check in the belief it was good for the money on its face. Ball was fixed at $1,000, and Mr. Carr, of Centre street, justifying in that amount, Doll was released to appear for trial on Thursday next.

FIFTY-SEVENTH STREET COURT. Before Judge Murray.

A YOUNG MAN WHO TRIED TO BE TOO SMART. An interesting case of abandonment was disposed of at this Court yesterday. Sarah Hauser, of No. 58 Sheriff street, charged George Edward, of No. 58 Sheriff Street, charged George Edward, her youthful husband, with refusing to provide for her, or, in fact, to recognize in any way her right as a wife. In her testimony she stated that her husband before their marriage had endeavored to secuce her, but not having succeeded he obtained her consent to be married under fictitious names in the Allen street Methodist Episcopal church. The pastor discovered the traud some time after the couple had been made one, and by threats compelled Hauser to reappear before him with the complainant and he remarried them under their proper names. The defendant then abandoned her. The ueience was that the complainant was of bad character previous to her marriage with the defendant and that her object in securing him for a husband was to come in for a snare of her mother-in-law's $70,000 worth of real estate. The defence was not considered sufficient by the Court, and the husband was committed, in default of $500 security, to pay $3 a week to his wife and to be of good behavior for six months.

A BROKEN HEART.

JOHN CONROY'S SUDDEN DEATH-WAS IT CAUSED BY VIOLENCE?

Yesterday afternoon a death occurred in the First ward which was thought to be the result of violence; but a subsequent investigation gave the case a different coloring. It appears that John Conroy, forty-six years of age, and born in Ireland, who lived at No. 20 Cherry street, had a little skirmish with Edward Jennings, at the corner of Bridge and Whitehall streets, during which Con-

Skirmish with Edward Jennings, at the goorner of Bridge and Whitehall streets, during which Conroy, as is alleged, made a pass at Jennings with his fist, but the latter being the most powerful of the two refused to quarrel with Conroy, as he was in poor health, and waiked away to avoid trouble. Deceased followed him, but returned in fitteen minutes atterward, with his coat on his arm and apparently in good spirits, having no marks of violence upon him.

William Harkness, of No. 22 Front street, Brookips, soon afterward heard a little girl remark that "a man was having a fit around the corner," and, going to see who it was, found that it was his triend Conroy. The latter was taken up and converse, and said nothing about being injured. He did remark to Mr. Harkness, however, that his heart was broken and that he was dying, and, a ter making some remark about his chidren, became unconscious and soon after expired.

The First precinct police, believing it to be a case of homicide, arrested Jennings and took him to the station house. Coroner Kessler gave permission to remove the remains of deceased to his late residence, No. 20 Cherry street, where Dr. Marsh will make a post-mortein examination. It is believed that deceased was suffering from some organic disease, which was accelerated by the excitement under which be was laboring and caused death. Jennings, who lives at No. 115 Union avenue, Brooklyn, was detained to await the result of urther examination. Deceased has left a widow and five children.

ERIE ACCIDENTS.

Nearly all the Eric Railway trains are running irregularly in consequence of the cold weather, and a number of accidents have occurred from the same cause. Some twenty or thirty locomo-tives have been laid up for repairs in consequence of the recent coid snap.

Day before yesterday a connecting rod broke on an engine attached to Conductor Lupton's Pater-son train, when going at full speed near Rutherand smashed to atoms that side of the cab. Fire-man Wannamaker had just left his seat when the man Wannamaker had just left his seat when the accident occurred; otherwise he would have met an instant and norrible death.

About fire o'clock this morning, when No. 10 express freight train was nearing kidgewood, several cars accidentally became uncoupled, without the fact being noticed by the engineer. The train stopped at kidgewood as usual. All unconscious of what was about to happen, the engineer released his hold of the lever and looked out of the window. At that instant the cars which had been dropped arrived and strack the train with great lore. Every one standing up on the engine or on the piatforms was thrown down. A coal car and two box cars were smashed into frawments, and, with their contents, piled up on the track. A brakeman named Verms Tyler, aged about eigateen years, was caught between two of the cars and crushed so badly that he soon afterward ded.

There came near being another coffision shortly afterward between the wrecking train, which, on receipt of the news of the disaster, started for the spot, and the engine of the wrecked train, which had started for Paterson instead of switching off to watt for the wrecker. Fortunately, however, the engineers succeeded in atopping their respective locomotives in time.
